

2022 Animal Health and Handling Certificate Program

Are you interested in gaining hands-on experience working with cattle and calves in key management areas? Faculty at The Ohio State University are offering a two-day in-person program for farm owners and employees that aims to provide marketable skills for participants while promoting the health and welfare of dairy animals.

What to Expect: The Animal Health and Handling Certificate Program will offer participants hands-on experiences in the following areas:

- Proper drug administration (IV, Intramammary, IM, SQ, oral)
- Low-stress animal handling
- Dehorning
- Record keeping and residue avoidance
- Clinical examinations

Certificates will be provided to participants completing this program. Limited to first 20 participants to register. Lunch will be catered. Please note any food allergens at the time of registration.

When: May 6 and 7th, 2022

Trainings will be held in-person from 8 am – 5 pm Friday and Saturday.

Who Can Attend: Anyone (18 years of age or older) interested in or currently working with dairy cows and calves, or wants to learn about the care of cattle

Cost: $50 per family/farm, 1 additional member can register at $25, includes meals

Method of Payment: Cash or Check

Location: Krauss Dairy, 2250 Oil City Road, Wooster, Ohio 44691
